

McGohan Brabender Daily COVID-19 Update

Today is Friday March 27, 2020

We have a light dose of updates today, but always important.

Coronavirus Relief Bill: Now Awaits President's Sign Off

Today, Friday, March 27, 2020—after days of debate—the House of Representatives approved a $2 trillion economic rescue package designed to provide financial assistance to Americans and their families, and billions of dollars in loans for businesses. The bill will now head to the president for a final signature before it's made into law.

COMPLIANCE: FFCRA Poster

Because you must share this information to be compliant, we are running this article again today. Please note specifically the FFCRA Poster that must be distributed to your employees. If they are working remotely, please provide electronically, and if onsite, a hard copy. Click on the link, and click again for the notice.

Carrier Updates: Updating Daily

Lately the carriers are sharing information about defer premium payments. Majority of carriers are directing that if you do wish to defer your payment, you must request it. Some are only allowing to defer March, which ironically, you have probably already paid. Check our website for those specific articles to determine your options with each of your carriers.

As the numbers of those affected by the coronavirus continue to rise as a nation, it appears that Ohio's early decision to quarantine is helping to flatten the curve. It has been a long two weeks, and we are still deep in the woods of this health concern. Don't undo all the good work we have done to venture out just because it is the weekend! Grab a book, binge watch Netflix, wash your entire car, or try a new recipe. Just be safe.
