SIDE AFFECTS PODCAST: BUILDING BLOCKS OF HR TECHNOLOGY

What exactly is HR Technology? Learn with the first of three podcasts with our Director of Growth, Anne Marie Singleton and Side Affects Producer Kenzie Fell with guest speaker, Kelly Zimmerman from Benefit Technology Resources (BTR) to discuss the importance of HR Technology. No matter the size of your company, you will use some sort of technology to support your workforce. Starting with recruiting, on-boarding, and continue with employee payroll and more. Right now, COVID-19 has spotlighted the evident misses with HR Technology. There are so many options that are easy and inexpensive that can help close those gaps of support. It is a process, and it all starts with a strategy. We recommend listening to this and the other BTR Side Affects podcasts as a good starting point.

OHIO NEW ORDER "STAY SAFE OHIO" UNTIL MAY 29

We have reached a new stage, but coronavirus hasn't gone away! It is no longer a Stay at Home Order, it is a Stay Safe Ohio Order, until May 29th. We need to be practical with our efforts to stay safe and have public confidence that steps are being followed. It is so important to continue to follow the CDC recommendations toward social distancing, mask-wearing, and staying home if necessary. Governor DeWine has industry expert groups working together to determine good re-opening times for each industry. Governor DeWine stated, "We can stay safe, protect each other and at the same time, we can get back to work."

INDIANA - STAY AT HOME GUIDELINES

This State of Indiana executive order provides guidance regarding the stay at home order. Governor Holcomb identifies those exempt from this order as well as defining the essential workers. Please read on for the steps if workers have been exposed, or recovering, and how that will play with going back to work. This article has other links included that will answer numerous questions.
